Japan is a country rich in history, customs and traditions. Take bowing as an example. Bowing in Japan represents humility. Japanese honor and respect other people by humbling themselves or lowering themselves. The lower one bows, the more one respects the other party. Usually, the person with lower status initiates the bow, bows the lowest, and is the last one to rise. The most frequently used bow is a rather informal bow of about 15 degrees and is held for one or two seconds. A deeper bow is used for one's superior, or on a formal occasion such as the first meeting. This bow is usually about 30 degrees and is held for about three seconds. Men usually leave their hands by their sides while bowing, but women usually place them together with their fingertips overlapping or touching. Heels should be together. If you rise from your bow and the other person has not risen yet, you should bow again. On most occasions, especially when saying good-bye, there are several bows by all parties. Not to bow in return is similar to refusing a handshake.

26. The passage is mainly about _____.
 (A) Japanese honor                      (B) Japanese history
 (C) Japanese custom                      (D) Japanese social status
27. According to the passage, what does the word "initiates" mean?
 (A) Starts.                      (B) Honors.                      (C) Informs.                      (D) Respects.
28. According to the passage, what does the word "them" refer to?
 (A) Sides.                      (B) Hands.                      (C) Heels.                      (D) Fingertips.

29. According to the passage, which of the following statements is true?
- (A) A woman is required to bow to a man.
  - (B) On a formal occasion, a bow should be about 30 degrees.
  - (C) When saying good-bye, all parties have to bow to each other for three seconds and once.
  - (D) While bowing, men usually put their hands on both sides with their hands touching.
30. According to the passage, what can be inferred from the last sentence “Not to bow in return is similar to refusing a hand-shake”?
- (A) Japanese should bow to each other, not shake hands.
  - (B) Bowing is more polite than hand-shaking.
  - (C) Bowing back is socially polite.
  - (D) Men should not bow if they refuse to shake hands.

Come and celebrate with us one of the most wonderful sites in the world. We are proud to offer reservations on the HARBOR QUEEN for the 2003 New Year’s Eve celebrations. Social anxiety is the third largest psychological problem in the United States today. This type of anxiety affects 15 million Americans every year. Unlike some other psychological problems, social anxiety is not well understood by the public. Even when they are in familiar company, people with social anxiety have the feeling that others are taking note of their every movement and criticizing their every thought. They feel like they are being observed negatively and that other people are making negative judgments about them. The socially anxious people cannot relax, "take it easy," or enjoy themselves in public. Because anxiety is very painful, it is much easier just to stay away from social situations and avoid other people altogether.

However, few socially-anxious people have heard of their own problem, and have never seen it discussed by the media, such as television talk shows. They always think they are the only ones in the whole world who have those terrible symptoms. Therefore, they must keep quiet about their problems. It would be awful, they think, if everyone realized how much anxiety they experience in daily life. Then what would the world think of them? In fact, without proper education, sufficient knowledge, and appropriate treatment, they continue to be disturbed by social anxiety throughout their lives. Adding to this difficult situation, when a person with social anxiety finally gets the courage to seek help, the chances of finding help are very, very slim.

36. This passage is mainly about _____.
- (A) how to educate socially-anxious people
  - (B) how talk shows treat socially-anxious people
  - (C) the symptoms that socially-anxious people have
  - (D) a new type of medicine to treat socially-anxious people
37. What does the word "slim" mean?
- (A) Small.                      (B) Good.                      (C) Careful.                      (D) Serious.
38. According to the passage, socially-anxious people _____.
- (A) are well-understood by the public
  - (B) like going to the talk shows
  - (C) enjoy themselves very much in social gatherings
  - (D) feel that they are being negatively watched by the public

39. According to the passage, we may infer that _____.
- (A) parents should send socially-anxious children to the hospital
  - (B) doctors should give new medicine to treat socially-anxious people
  - (C) talk shows should discuss more about the problem of social anxiety
  - (D) socially-anxious people should be encouraged to stay home more
40. According to the passage, after the second paragraph, the author probably continues to write about _____.
- (A) what the public think of socially-anxious people
  - (B) why socially-anxious people cannot obtain help easily
  - (C) how everyone realizes the problems of socially-anxious people in daily life
  - (D) what kind of medicine could cure socially-anxious people

四、文意測驗 (共 10 題，每題 2 分，共 20 分)

說明：第 41 題至 50 題共分為四種題型，其作答方式，請詳讀各題型前之說明。
題型一：(第 41、42 題) 下面兩篇段落各少一個主題句，請依各段文意選出一個最恰當的選項。

41. Which of the following is the most appropriate topic sentence for the paragraph below?
- (A) A nickname is a name used informally instead of one's given name.
  - (B) Almost everyone has a nickname and a given name.
  - (C) A nickname to a person is like the image to a company.
  - (D) A nickname is more important than a given name to a person.

_____ It is often simply a shortened version of a person's given name, for example, "Joe" for Josephine or "Bill" for William. Sometimes, a nickname is given because of someone's appearance or other characteristics. A very thin person may be called "Stick" and a very fat one, "Roly-poly." It is common to use nicknames among family members and close friends.

42. Which of the following is the most appropriate topic sentence for the paragraph below?
- (A) The Chinese writing system is the only existing system that consists of only picture words.
  - (B) The Chinese writing system developed from ancient picture writing.
  - (C) In learning the Chinese writing system, we have to draw pictures for words.
  - (D) The Chinese writing system is difficult to learn, especially picture writing.

_____ At the very beginning, the picture words resembled closely the objects they were referring to. Examples are the words eye, mouth, human, mountain, sun, and moon. Over time, the words have changed in form; the picture signs became characters. The Chinese character for moon, for instance, first took the shape of a crescent moon before developing to its present form, and the word sun today no longer shows heat radiating from a sun.

題型二：(第 43 至 45 題) 下面三篇段落各少了一個句子，請依各段文意選出一個最恰當的選項。

43. Which of the following can best fit into the blank in the paragraph below?

- (A) who have laid off large numbers of workers and kept production below normal capacity
- (B) who make up the sector with the biggest recovery
- (C) whose orders from overseas markets showed the worst decline last year
- (D) whose recovery led to general economic recovery

Manufacturers, _____, have been the weakest link in the economy's ability to recover fully from the effects of the 2001 recession. For all of 2002, orders to U.S. factories dropped by 0.8 percent. Still, that was an improvement over the sharp 7.4 percent decline for 2001. Shipments – a measure of demand – fell 1.1 percent last year, compared with a deeper 5.5 percent drop for all of 2001.

44. Which of the following can best fit into the blank in the paragraph below?

- (A) two capsules per meal per day are suggested
- (B) effects have on immune function and learning disabilities
- (C) we must acquire them from our diet
- (D) the best therapeutic levels for you based on lifestyle and general health

There are about 50 essential elements our bodies require for everyday health and for longevity. They are considered “essential” because our bodies cannot produce them; _____. Most of these essential elements are vitamins, minerals and amino acids, but two are the essential fatty acids known as omega 3 and omega 6.

45. Which of the following can best fit into the blank in the paragraph below?

- (A) Shopping for a low-rated company might save you a lot of money.
- (B) So do not drop your policy if it costs you a penalty.
- (C) Insurers with profit problems will probably raise premiums for its existing policyholders.
- (D) But if it promises years of stable premiums, it is actually cheap.

When you are shopping for a new insurance policy, one from a high-rated company might look more expensive. _____ Good insurance policies generally cover home care and some pay a family member to look after you. To hold your premium down, consider funding for NT$2000 a day and absorbing the rest of the cost yourself. Plan to pay for the first 90 days out of your pocket, before the coverage kicks in.

題型三：(第 46 至 48 題) 下面三篇段落各有四個劃底線的句子，每個句子前有選項代碼，分別為 (A)、(B)、(C)、(D)。請依各段落內容，選出一個文意最不連貫的句子，並將該句子之選項代碼劃在答案卡上。

46. (A) When you finish vocational high school and start college, making your own decisions and taking responsibilities for your actions, you realize there is life after adolescence. (B) There is hardly any pressure. But then, look back and think harder. If I had the means, I would give out stickers to all junior and senior high school students. (C) These would carry the statement: "I may be getting older, but I refuse to grow up." Adolescence is not without its problems and confusions. (D) Yet, it permits you to keep some of the spontaneity of childhood.
47. We take our smoothly paved highways and streets for granted as products of technology and engineering. They are made of concrete, a building material composed of cement, sand or gravel, and water. (A) The huge concrete channel supplied drinking water to ancient Rome. (B) The cement in concrete has a long history. The Egyptians burned chips from the Great Pyramid and used the resulting ash as mortar. (C) The Romans made a cement out of volcanic ash, which they turned into concrete by mixing it with water, lime, and rock; they used cement in the Great Aqueduct about 2000 years ago. (D) Today, concrete mix containing sand is used for smooth applications; gravel mix is used where a stronger concrete is required.
48. (A) Generally speaking, the life science industry does not respond very much to economic changes. For some time, it has been enjoying a rather stable demand. Now, however, the sector is affected by pessimism in business expectations. (B) It has suffered from severe losses made by some companies and wrong decisions made in the development of new drugs in recent years. (C) Business performance remains strong as the elderly people in the aging population continue to buy healthcare goods and services. (D) The industry is faced with a great challenge. How to survive and prosper despite the bad times?

題型四：(第 49、50 題) 重組題。下面兩題各有若干句子，請組成文意連貫之段落，選出正確之選項，並將答案劃在答案卡上。
